4. BROADCASTER BLANKETS

MCPS and PRS for Music license hundreds of television and radio stations, from major broadcasters, such as the BBC, ITV and Sky, to small community radio stations.

If you are a television channel or radio station making or commissioning content, such as programmes or trailers, or if you are broadcasting content, such as programmes, adverts or trailers that include music, you will require a licence, and the most appropriate licence for you is likely to be a Broadcast Blanket licence.

For more information on Broadcast Blanket licences, which cover the use of Production Music and/or Commercial Music, please visit the PRS for Music website and check out the 'Using Music on Radio' or 'Using Music on Television' pages that can be found in the Licensing section.

The following links can be used to access these:

- Licences for BARB-rated TV channels
- Licences for Non-BARB-rated TV channels
- Licences for Radio Stations

If you are an independent television production company making your own productions for sale to the UK and/or international broadcasters, or VOD streaming services such as Amazon and Netflix, please see the Content for Television section.

If you are making a television production for or on behalf of a UK broadcaster it is always recommended to check with that broadcaster to see if they hold an MCPS-PRS Broadcaster Blanket licence, and if so, whether the specific nature and details of the production you are working on falls under their blanket licence in terms of the rights required for its UK primary broadcast and/or its worldwide distribution.

5. CONTENT FOR TELEVISION & VOD

10. GENERAL INFORMATION

In addition to the specific notes on each page of this rate card, please also note this general information that applies to all sections:

- The rates in this Rate Card are effective from 2 January 2026 to 1 January 2027
- All licences last for the lifetime of production
- Only productions synchronised in the UK can be licensed through our Rate Card
- All rates are exclusive of VAT
- If you've made an application previously and require additional rights, please contact us about a top-up licence
- Speech translations do not require additional licensing
- There are no pre-clearance requirements when using MCPS Production Music, but it is important to organise your licence before exploiting your production
- Using, or authorising others to use, MCPS Production Music without a valid licence covering each specific use constitutes copyright infringement for which facility houses, production companies and their clients could be liable
